Craft Beer Brewed From Pure Cotswold Spring Water

Severn Brewery, which also goes under the name 'S7N', is an independent, locally owned and operated brewery on the edge of the Cotswold escarpment, overlooking the Severn Vale. The company was founded in October 2017 by entrepreneur Iain Crockett who, having run a successful business supplying other manufacturer's drinks for the past 12 years, decided it was time to become a manufacturer himself.

With the expertise of head brewer Steve McDonald and brewer Harry Newbould, the aim was to create classic, unique British beers, crafted from only the finest ingredients. S7N use Cotswold spring water from their own water source on site drawing from the Cotswold aquifer and they craft from the finest homegrown ingredients including Hereford hops and British malts, although hops from America and New Zealand are used in some of their beers to create beers unique in style and flavour. Although the brewery is young, they've already started winning awards: S7N's Copper Ale won Silver in the Cask British Bitters category of the SIBA Regional Beer Awards in May 2018.

All our beers are gluten-free and our keg and canned beer is vegan-friendly. We have six unique craft beers available in 9g cask, 30l Keg, 5l Mini Keg and 330ml can, so they can be enjoyed anywhere: in a pub or bar, at an outdoor event, or at home on a summer's day or winter's evening. There is a style to suit every occasion and all our beers come with tasting notes and food matching options.
